

HANDLING “TELL ME ABOUT YOURSELF” LIKE A STORY

Every interview starts with one question:
“Tell me about yourself.”

Simple? Yes.
But it decides how the next 10 minutes go.

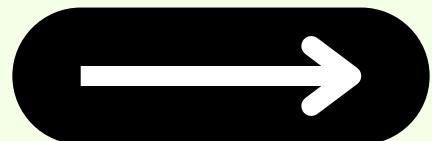

MOST STUDENTS PANIC AND RECITE THEIR RESUME.

THE SMART ONES PLAN A STORY SHORT,REAL,AND CONFIDENT.

Because interviewers remember stories, not summaries.

Here's the simple P.A.S. Framework :-

- P – Present: Where you are now
- A – Achievements: What you've done
- S – Short-term goal: Where you're headed

START WITH THE PRESENT

Begin with your current role or education.

"I'M A 2ND-YEAR COMPUTER SCIENCE STUDENT AT UNITED INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY, EXPLORING SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT AND PUBLIC SPEAKING.,,"

Set the context.
Keep it conversational,
not robotic.

ADD 1-2 KEY WINS

PICK SPECIFIC, SHORT ACHIEVEMENTS THAT HIGHLIGHT YOUR STRENGTHS.

I've led a communication club of 80+ students and built two mini tech projects this year.”

Show impact, not just activity.

MENTION ALIGNED INTERESTS.

“I enjoy solving logical problems and communicating ideas – that’s why I’m drawn to product management roles.”

BRIDGE YOUR SKILLS TO THE ROLE OR FIELD YOU'RE APPLYING FOR.

KEEP IT CRISP

(Under 90 Seconds)

"You're not narrating your life you're pitching your potential."

Structure + flow + confidence.
Practice it until it sounds natural,
not memorized.

Tip:

Record yourself once refine where you sound flat.

END WITH ENTHUSIASM, NOT DESPERATION

Wrap with energy and direction.
